A Once in a Generation Innovation

Senior living design is driven by the desire to give and maintain the quality of life in communities where its residents are comprised of seniors at all levels – independent living, assisted living and memory care.

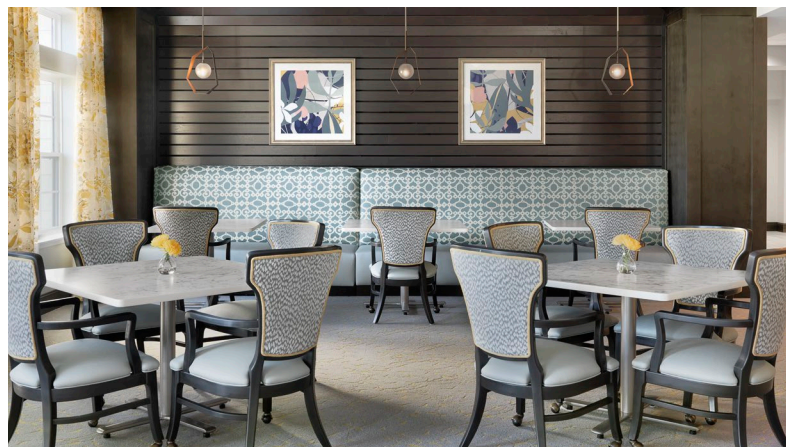

Kwalu developed a winning solution across the entire spectrum of senior living design by creating a material technology innovation. Kwalu combined its patented joint construction and its proprietary surface technology to develop furnishings for the future that are in a class of their own.

Unlike metal and wood, which rely on the thin topical coatings that don't hold up well over time, the acrylic based co-polymer surface material of Kwalu will not chip, crack or split.
